

“What’s on your Mind?”
May 2005

“Cindy Olson was very considerate in helping me with re-checking library books. She is truly an asset to the library. If we had more people like her the library would be a perfect experience.”

Thank you! I am very pleased you are happy with our service in the library. Cindy Olson

“Whoever said that Science chicks were ugly....Lied.”

No, no. It was not the library! In fact we’ve heard that a famous Internet company is considering a calendar featuring female science majors.

“The study rooms on the 2nd floor are always way too hot.”

Fondren Library Center has study rooms on the second floor in the connecting LINK and Fondren East. Only Study Room 207 in Fondren Library East has a thermostat for the room that allows users to change the room temperature.

“Later hours. At 2:00 am I START work...Even till 3:00 would be nice.”

It is our goal to one day offer a 24/7 library.

“The female security guard (the white one) was extremely rude. If she treats me like that one more time b/c I am not white, I promise that I will take it to a higher authority.”

Please see the Director of Public Services in 204 Fondren Library East or call 214 768 2323.

“The Theology library sends out email notices before your books are due.”

The Fondren Library Center does send out "courtesy e-mail notices" 7 days before the books are due. If you are not receiving your e-mail notices for some reason, please contact Cindy Olson at the FLC Circulation desk, or by phone 214-768-2330.

“I dearly miss the nice, big sturdy wooden tables that used to be in the Information Commons. Though the padded chairs are an appreciated improvement, if I wanted to sit cramped at a little round café table or a really tall, hope-I-don’t-drop-my-pencil kind of table, I’d go to Starbucks. At least there, the tables don’t shake when someone erases or sets down a book. The chatty social area that was created here would be more welcomed at Hughes-Trigg. Please bring back the tables that hardcore studiers used to come to the library for.”

Those big sturdy wooden tables have not left the building. Check on the second floor of Fondren Library East or the Science Mezzanine.

“Do you think that you could find a charitable way for me to work off my fine for this spring like you do in the fall? I’m sure the Dallas County Food Band is always taking donations. I could help organize it. Let me know because I can't afford my fine!"

Please contact Cindy Olson at the Circulation desk @ 214-768-2330 to discuss your overdue fine and employment request.

"Another light bulb in West Stack Elevator please."

The bulb in the West elevator works, it is just dim. We will inquire about a brighter bulb.
